The following is a transcript of a video of C. Howard Nye, President and Chief Executive Officer of Martin Marietta Materials, Inc. (“Martin Marietta”) in connection with Martin Marietta’s proposed business combination with Vulcan Materials Company that was made available to Martin Marietta’s employees on December 12, 2011.

Hello, as you know, I’m Ward Nye, Chief Executive Officer of Martin Marietta Materials.

I want to take this opportunity to speak directly with you, our colleagues and employees, about a very exciting step we’ve taken.

Martin Marietta has made a public proposal to combine with Vulcan Materials Company. If this transaction is completed, we’ll create a company that will be the leading global aggregates producer – and an enduring American champion.

We believe this is a phenomenal opportunity to bring together two American companies with complementary footprints and assets.

Together, we can create an even stronger company, well positioned to compete now and in the future.

We would have greater scale and efficiencies that will enable us to deliver enhanced products and services to customers.

Financially, the combined company would be one of the strongest in the industry with the ability to make important investments.

As a result, we foresee greater growth opportunities – and value – for virtually everyone associated with our companies.

As you know, these last few years have been challenging for our nation and industry. We have experienced the most trying recession since the Great Depression.

But we should be proud that Martin Marietta has been one of the best performing companies in the industry for a variety of reasons, a major one being each and every one of you — at all levels and throughout this company.

Our disciplined approach to cost management and operational efficiency has enabled us to remain financially stable, invest in our business and continue to deliver a shareholder dividend. Just as important to our long-term success, is our ability to identify growth opportunities and respond proactively to market dynamics.

As we look to the future, combining Martin Marietta and Vulcan makes excellent industrial and financial sense. We believe it is the best path for the employees and shareholders of both companies and the communities in which we both operate.

It is our hope and expectation that over the long-term, the strategic combination will lead to greater opportunities for advancement and growth for both sets of employees as we merge our cultures and our operations.

The combined company would be headquartered in Raleigh, with a strong presence in Vulcan's home town of Birmingham, Alabama. The Martin Marietta Board has asked me to continue on as the President and CEO of the combined company, and as part of our proposal Vulcan's CEO, Don James, would be chairman of the board.

We hope that Vulcan, with the support and encouragement of its shareholders, will negotiate with us to achieve a mutually agreed upon combination of our companies.

We've taken a number of steps so that Vulcan shareholders, many of whom are also our shareholders, can send a strong message to their Board that they want our proposal to be fairly and objectively considered.

We'll keep you posted when there are significant developments. You can also refer to the website that we've set up at www.aggregatesleader.com for information about our proposal.

So, what can you do to help us achieve success in this transaction? Stay focused on working safely so we can continue achieving world-class levels of safety and striving for our goal of zero incidents. Stay focused on operational excellence so we can continue performing at the highest level. Your performance is the very foundation supporting this strategic move.

If this transaction doesn't work out, we'll continue to be one of the best performing companies in the industry and we will continue to pursue attractive opportunities to grow our business.

We do think a combination with Vulcan is an exceptional opportunity for both companies, and we're going to do everything we can to make this transaction happen.

Your support will be a great strength for Martin Marietta, and for me personally throughout this process.

As always, I thank you for everything you do for Martin Marietta and please have very safe and productive day.

Cautionary Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This video may include "forward-looking statements." Statements that include words such as "anticipate," "expect," "should be," "believe," "will," and other words of similar meaning in connection with future events or future operating or financial performance are often used to identify forward-looking statements. All statements in this video, other than those relating to historical information or current conditions, are forward-looking statements.

These forward-looking statements are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, many of which are beyond Martin Marietta's control, which could cause actual results to differ materially from such statements. Risks and uncertainties relating to the proposed transaction with Vulcan include, but are not limited to: Vulcan's willingness to accept Martin Marietta's proposal and enter into a definitive transaction agreement reasonably satisfactory to the parties; Martin Marietta's ability to obtain shareholder, antitrust and other approvals on the proposed terms and schedule; uncertainty as to the actual premium that will be realized by Vulcan shareholders in connection with the proposed transaction; uncertainty of the expected financial performance of the combined company following completion of the proposed transaction; Martin Marietta's ability to achieve the cost-savings and synergies contemplated by the proposed transaction within the expected time frame; Martin Marietta's ability to promptly and effectively integrate the businesses of Vulcan and Martin Marietta; a downgrade of the credit rating of Vulcan's indebtedness, which could give rise to an obligation to redeem Vulcan's existing indebtedness; the potential implications of alternative transaction structures with respect to Vulcan, Martin Marietta and/or the combined company, including potentially requiring an offer to repurchase certain of Martin Marietta's existing debt; the implications of the proposed transaction on certain of Martin Marietta's and Vulcan's employee benefit plans; and disruption from the proposed transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees or suppliers. Additional risks and uncertainties include, but are not limited to: the performance of the United States economy; decline in aggregates pricing; the inability of the U.S. Congress to pass a successor federal highway bill; the discontinuance of the federal gasoline tax or other revenue related to infrastructure construction; the level and timing of federal and state transportation funding, including federal stimulus projects; the ability of states and/or other entities to finance approved projects either with tax revenues or alternative financing structures; levels of construction spending in the markets that Martin Marietta and Vulcan serve; a decline in the commercial component of the nonresidential construction market, notably office and retail space; a slowdown in residential construction recovery; unfavorable weather conditions, particularly Atlantic Ocean hurricane activity, the late start to spring or the early onset of winter and the impact of a drought or excessive rainfall in the markets served by Martin Marietta and Vulcan; the volatility of fuel costs, particularly diesel fuel, and the impact on the cost of other consumables, namely steel, explosives, tires and conveyor belts; continued increases in the cost of other repair and supply parts; transportation availability, notably barge availability on the Mississippi River system and the availability of railcars and locomotive power to move trains to supply Martin Marietta's and Vulcan's long haul distribution markets; increased transportation costs, including increases from higher passed-through energy and other costs to comply with tightening regulations as well as higher volumes of rail and water shipments; availability and cost of construction equipment in the United States; weakening in the steel industry markets served by Martin Marietta's dolomitic lime products; inflation and its effect on both production and interest costs; Martin Marietta's ability to successfully integrate acquisitions and business combinations quickly and in a cost-effective manner and achieve anticipated profitability to maintain compliance with Martin Marietta's leverage ratio debt covenants; changes in tax laws, the interpretation of such laws and/or administrative practices that would increase Martin Marietta's and/or Vulcan's tax rate; violation of Martin Marietta's debt covenant if price and/or volumes return to previous levels of instability; a potential downgrade in the rating of Martin Marietta's or Vulcan's indebtedness; downward pressure on Martin Marietta's or Vulcan's common stock price and its impact on goodwill impairment evaluations; the highly competitive nature of the construction materials industry; the impact of future regulatory or legislative actions; the outcome of pending legal proceedings; healthcare costs; the amount of long-term debt and interest expense incurred; changes in interest rates; volatility in pension plan asset values which may require cash contributions to pension plans; the impact of environmental clean-up costs and liabilities relating to previously divested businesses; the ability to secure and permit aggregates reserves in strategically located areas; exposure to residential construction markets; and the impact on the combined company (after giving effect to the proposed transaction with Vulcan) of any of the foregoing risks, as well as other risk factors listed from time to time in Martin Marietta's and Vulcan's filings with the SEC.

The foregoing review of important factors should not be construed as exhaustive and should be read in conjunction with the other cautionary statements that are included elsewhere, including the Risk Factors section of the Registration Statement and our most recent reports on Form 10-K and Form 10-Q, and any other documents of Martin Marietta and Vulcan filed with the SEC. Any forward-looking statements made in this video are qualified in their entirety by these cautionary statements, and there can be no assurance that the actual results or developments anticipated by us will be realized or, even if substantially realized, that they will have the expected consequences to, or effects on, us or our business or operations. Except to the extent required by applicable law, we undertake no obligation to update publicly or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future developments or otherwise.

Important Additional Information
